Notes on the Translation

It is an axiom with authorities on Plain Chant that the words are more important than the melodies; in other words, that the liturgical text takes precedence over the music to which it is sung, and in fact, determines the manner of rendering the music, since the same melody is sometimes found attached to various texts of quite different character.

Unfortunately there are few organists or singers nowadays whose knowledge of Latin is sufficient to enable them to follow easily the meaning of the liturgical texts. So it seemed desirable to the editor of this manual of Plain Chant that a literal and word-for-word rendering of the Latin should be printed immediately below the Latin text in such a way that the sense could be followed as the words are sung.

Accordingly the translator has made it his aim to offer such a word-for-word translation as would make the meaning of the text clear and could be read intelligibly even by itself. The difficulties are of course considerable. The main difference between Latin and most modern languages lies in the word order; for in Latin the endings of the words are changed to indicate their connection with the rest of the sentence whereas in modern languages it is the order of the words which indicates their connection with each other. In consequence the words in the Latin sentence can be arranged to suit the taste and convenience of the writer and so the order often varies greatly from that in English. In our word-for-word translations we have sought to render each Latin word where it stands and yet to make sense in English, thus enabling, we hope, the singer with little or no Latin to follow the meaning in the Latin order. This naturally leads to some rather odd expressions, but not unintelligible; e. g., Pater noster: Father of-us; Deus meus: God of-mine; that is to say, adjectives commonly follow the noun in Latin. Again the verb may stand before the subject; e. g., Fiat lux: Be-made light. In English we say, Hallowed be Thy name; Blessed art thou, etc. Consequently the reader must be prepared for many such unusual arrangements of words. Where more than one word in English is required to translate a single Latin word, as is often the case, these words are joined by hyphens; Fiat lux: Let-there-be light. Where extra words have been inserted to make the translation clearer these have been enclosed in parentheses. So it is believed that a careful study of these translations will be of considerable value even to those who know some Latin, but wish to obtain greater fluency.

"I will pray in a tongue", says St. Paul, "but I will also pray with the understanding". Surely our singing will give greater glory to God and greater edification to our neighbor and to ourselves if we do it with understanding as well as with artistic propriety. God grant that this little book may contribute something to such a "reasonable service" on the part of those who participate in the Church's liturgy as members of choirs and singing congregations.

Introduction concerning Chant Technique

1) GREGORIAN NOTATION WITH THE RYTHMIC SIGNS OF SOLESMES

The notes and groups of notes (neums) used in Gregorian chant appear on a four-line staff. Two clef signs are in use to indicate the relative pitch of the notes :

The Do-clef  shows on what line the note Do is placed.

The Fa-clef  shows on what line the note Fa is placed.

These clefs may appear on any line depending on the range of the melody to be sung, so that the notes of the piece may be placed on the staff lines and spaces, thus avoiding, as far as possible, the use of leger lines above or below the staff.

The GUIDE  is a sign placed at the end of each line of Gregorian music to indicate in advance the first note of the following line. It is also employed in the course of a line when the extension of the melody demands a change in the place of the clef, to show the relative pitch of the first note after the change.

Three kinds of BAR-LINES are used :

The DOUBLE BAR  which indicates the end of a piece or a change of choir. The FULL BAR  which indicates the end of a phrase and a full pause in the singing. The HALF BAR  indicates divisions known as clauses or members, hence the half bar is also called the member bar. It cuts the two middle lines of the staff. The QUARTER BAR  indicates divisions known as sections or incises. It cuts only the top line of the staff. The part played by each of these signs has to do with the punctuation of the musical phrase in respect to the greater rhythm of the piece. If BREATH must be taken at either the half bar or the quarter bar, it must be taken off the value of the note before.

The same holds true of the COMMA or VIRGULA. The only place for a stop or full pause in the singing is at the full bar or the double bar.

The only accidental permitted in the chant is the FLAT b, which may only be used on the note si (ti). The flat is effective only a) as long as the word lasts, b) until the next bar line of any kind, c) until revoked by the natural sign.

When only a single note is to be sung on a syllable of a word, the PUNCTUM • is used. Its value or duration may be modified in two ways: a) by the addition of a dot •, which doubles its length; b) by the horizontal episema : , which prolongs the note without necessarily doubling it. The individual note in Gregorian chant can never be divided or shortened by a fraction of itself as in modern music. In other words, the time-value of all notes are exactly the same unless lengthened by the addition of a dot or accompanied by the horizontal episema as mentioned above.

The VIRGA | and the diamond or RHOMBUS ♦ are never used alone. They are always parts of a neum, e. g.

When more than a single note is to be sung on a syllable of a word, the derived NEUM is used. The derived neum is, therefore, a group of notes sung over the same syllable. Sometimes more than a single neum is required to indicate all the notes to be sung on the same syllable.

a) Neums of two notes :

-  PODATUS or PES — second note higher than the first. The lower note is sung first.
-  CLIVIS — second note lower than the first.
-  DISTROPHA — second note on the same pitch as the first note.
-  BIVIRGA — doubles the note but with an expression of force firmness, whereas the distropha designates lightness.

b) Neums of three notes :

-  TORCULUS — second note higher than first and third.
-  PORRECTUS — second note lower than first and third.
-  CLIMACUS — each successive note lower than the preceding.

It may have more than three notes :

- SCANDICUS — each successive note higher than the preceding.
It may have more than three notes :
- SALICUS — each successive note higher than the preceding, with a slight prolongation and the rhythmic support on the second last note.
- TRISTROPHA — all three notes on the same pitch.
- c) Neums of four notes :
- TORCULUS RESUPINUS — torculus with fourth note higher than the third.
- PORRECTUS FLEXUS — porrectus with fourth note lower than the third.
- CLIMACUS RESUPINUS — climaxus with fourth note higher than the third.
- SCANDICUS FLEXUS — scandicus with fourth note lower than the third.
- PES SUBBIPUNCTIS — podatus followed by descending rhombus notes.

d) Special notes and neums :

- The QUILISMA is found in ascending passages. The note immediately preceding this jagged note must be distinctly prolonged and emphasized.
- The PRESSUS is the meeting of a punctum and a group, and then the punctum is before the neum, or a group and a group on the same pitch.
- The ORISCUS is the meeting of a group and a punctum on the same pitch and then the punctum is at the end of the neum.
- LIQUESCENT neums are those in which the last note is printed smaller than the note or notes which precede it. This small note has a duration equivalent to that of the other note. Its function is merely to facilitate the pronunciation of words at the juncture of vowels or certain consonants.

2) RHYTHM

Rhythm is the organizing element or factor of music which keeps the melody moving, flowing from one point to another until a certain resting point is reached. Rhythmic effect is produced or caused by establishing a relation of dependence between groups of two or three sounds (notes) to other groups of two or three sounds. Rhythm, therefore, is the welding or synthetic influence in music.

In Gregorian chant the rhythm is free, that is, the fundamental groups are not all of equal size, but the groups of twos and threes are intermingled freely. The ictus gives the rhythmic support to the melody and the elan to the movement. This means that the singer must be able to recognize which notes bear the rhythmic ictus in order to secure the order of movement essential to the very notion of musical rhythm. Practically speaking, the ictus is nothing else than the place where the fundamental groups of twos and threes begin. The following rules are therefore absolutely essential for the placing of the ictus in a chant melody. The vertical episema [!] is used to indicate the place of the ictus, but since it is not always printed in the chant melodies, the following simple set of rules must be applied. The three main rules are listed here in the order of their importance and in the order in which they must be used. The count of "one" or ictus belongs to :

1. Notes with the vertical episema marked in the musical text.
2. All notes that are sustained at least two pulses over the same syllable, such as the distropha, bivirga, tristropha, pressus, dotted notes; and the note before the quilisma.
3. Any note which begins a group (simple neum). This third rule holds only when it does not conflict with either of the first two above. In syllabic chant, i. e. passages where there is only one note to a syllable, there are two possibilities. The ictus may be placed on the note over the last syllable of each word, or you may count back by twos from the next known ictus found by the use of the three rules given above. The accent of the dactyl ordinarily attracts the ictus.

It is a common fault to assimilate the ictus to the accent of the words and give it their value. The rhythmical touching-point (ictus) may be relatively strong or weak depending upon its position in the text or melody. The ictus must never be confused with accent. Ictus has to do with the rhythm of the melody. Accent has to do with proper pronunciation of the text. Chant is beautifully and correctly sung when both these different things have been given their full measure of attention, but it is fatal to confuse them.

While the ictus determines the beginnings of groups of two or three notes, the actual rhythm is not achieved until these groups of twos and threes are related to each other on the basis of the arsis and thesis, i. e. the "rise" and "fall" elements of the complete rhythmic wave. The rhythmic wave is pictured by the chironomy. Chironomy is the art of conducting or directing the chant by gestures of the hand. It outlines or pictures the rhythm of the melody for the choir. Rhythm is a synthesis realized by means of successive steps : words, sections, members, phrases; each of these units being formed by a relationship of rise and fall, elan and repos, tension and release, activity and a coming to rest. The ARSIS or "rise group" designates the elan part of the rhythmic wave. The THESIS or "fall group" shows the relaxation phase of the rhythmic wave. The first and simplest rule of chironomy is that the arsis is used for rising melody and the thesis for descending melody and cadence. The arsis is frequently used for accents of words when they occur on the ictic note, or even off the ictic note when a thesis is not already in process. In the latter case an undulation is used to lift an accent which occurs after the ictus in a thetic group. Last syllables of words are generally thetic unless the melodic formation over the last syllable distinctly calls for an arsis.

It is essential to note that the arsis or thesis begins in every case on the ictic note. Hence, at every ictus there must be the beginning of either an arsis or a thesis. This is to say that the arsis and thesis bind together the binary and ternary groups throughout the phrase, so that at every ictus you must decide on the use of an arsis or thesis. For example :

Aspér- ges me, * Dó-mi- ne, hys-só-po, et mundá- bor :

1. An arsis because the beginning of a word and rising melody.
2. Another arsis to pick up the accent of the word.
3. A thesis because it is the end of the word.
4. A thesis because of the cadence effect of the dotted note at end of incise.
5. Arsis because of accent and rising melody and new incise.
6. Thesis because of descending melody and penultimate syllable of dactyl.
7. Thesis : descending melody and end of word. Note that this thesis includes the syllable "hys-" of the next word in order to arrive at the next ictic note which is on "so-".
8. Arsis to pick up the accent of the word.
9. Thesis on the end of a word.
10. Arsis on "et" because it is beginning a new phrase, and the melody lies higher than the preceding.
11. The next group of two suggests a complete rhythmic wave of arsis and thesis.
12. Arsis on the accent of the word.
13. The end, of course, is thetic.

In syllabic chants we often require the use of the UNDULATION in order to pick up a primary (or even a secondary) accent which is in a thesis and not on the ictic note. This happens especially when you give the words their natural rhythm, i. e. put the ictus on the note over the last syllable. The classic example is the "Dies irae".

Dí- es i-rae, dí- es . il-la, Sól-vet saéclum in fa-vil-la :

The undulations on i-rac, di-es, il-la and sol-vet are all necessary because these accents occur on the second or third pulse in a thesis. If these accents had occurred on the first pulse of a group of two or three then an arsis would have been used.

Rhythmically all music is divided into ultimate groups of two or three pulses. And locating the ictus in chant is nothing else than locating the place where these fundamental rhythmic groups of twos and threes begin. Thus the simple beats are combined in binary and ternary groupings. Real rhythm begins when these binary and ternary groupings are brought into relation with each other on the basis of arsis and thesis. Now, just as the ictus renders distinct but does not separate the binary and the ternary groupings, so the half-bar [|||] and the incise bar [=] serve to indicate the larger groupings or sections of a complete textual and melodic phrase. Thus, in the same way in which arsis and thesis couple up basic binary and ternary groups, the rhythm has various means of coupling up members and incises into an even higher unity or greater rhythm. Without a genuine aesthetic sense on the part of the director, and without the synthetic action of the rhythm, a piece of chant loses its literary, tonal and melodic meaning.

3) THE MODES

At the beginning of each chant melody will be found a number (from one to eight) which indicates the mode in which the piece is ending. A mode is a fixed arrangement of tones and semitones in a scale. Melodies of the chant use only the material of diatonic scale progressions. In Gregorian chant there are eight modes. A mode is characterized and identified by its tonic, dominant and range. The tonic is the note with which a mode ends or comes to rest: for that reason it is sometimes called the final or fundamental of a mode. The dominant is the note which serves as a centre of attraction round which the melodies tend to revolve. The range of a mode is the compass or area of notes which it covers in its eight constituent tones. Following is a table of the eight modes. The hollow note in each scale indicates the tonic, and the arrow shows the dominant. The range, of course, is evident from the notes contained in the scale.

The diagram illustrates four modes of Gregorian chant:

- I. Starts with a hollow note labeled 'D' and ends with a solid note labeled 'A'.
- II. Starts with a hollow note labeled 'D' and ends with a solid note labeled 'F'.
- III. Starts with a hollow note labeled 'D' and ends with a solid note labeled 'G'.
- IV. Starts with a hollow note labeled 'D' and ends with a solid note labeled 'B'.

Each mode is represented by a five-line staff with a clef, a key signature, and a small circle at the end. The hollow note 'D' is marked with a downward arrow indicating the tonic, and the solid note (the dominant) is marked with an upward arrow.

Some melodies end with notes other than those regarded as tonics in the regular eight modes. Such melodies can generally be said to be written in a transposed mode.

The distinction between the modes does not consist in their different height or depth of pitch, since any mode may be sung at any pitch depending on the nature of the choir or the occasion. What really constitutes the peculiarity of each mode is the place of the whole tones and semitones in the scale. But even more conclusive than scale structure as such are the melodic formulas for fixing the character of a mode. The distinctive character of different modes is best learned by the repeated singing and comparison of characteristic intervals, introductory formulas, typical melodies and cadences. It is also well to note that a specific chant melody may move within several modes by the usual process of modulation as in modern music.

4) EXPRESSION

The singing of the chant must be characterized by the three virtues of sobriety, simplicity and restraint. This requires on the part of the singer a mind disciplined in the art of prayer as well as in the art of music. But this does by no means imply that the chant is to be sung heavily or slowly. There must never be a sensation of dragging in the rendition of the chant. It must be sung lightly and it must move. The rhythm, the melody and the text all contribute to this lightness and movement which make the chant by nature so capable of lifting our minds and hearts to God in liturgical prayer.

To sing the chant beautifully and in a manner worthy of its high purpose, more is necessary than a mere understanding of the fundamental theory of the chant. The proper use of the voice is of equal importance. Any choir attempting to sing chant successfully must also give some very definite and disciplined attention to the following: 1) proper breathing; 2) tone production; 3) ear training; 4) voice blending; 5) development of a rhythmic sense; 6) rendering the melodies with a smooth, legato, sustained tone. As to dynamics, there must never be any sudden or exaggerated changes in volume. Regarding the speed or tempo, a good norm is this: the notes should follow each other in the same pace as syllables of the text would follow each other in a sensible reading and phrasing of the words. At all endings the choir should ordinarily slow down and quiet down. That is to say, cadences should be softened and prepared for by a suitable ritardando. In general, rising melody calls for a crescendo, and descending melody for a decrescendo.

Organ accompaniment to chant melodies must be simple and soft. It must never call attention to itself by being "flashy" or loud. Actually the chant does not require any accompaniment. By its very nature chant is self-sufficient and artistically satisfying when sung a cappella. But if the organ is used it should serve merely as a background or support to the singing, giving the impression that the choir is at all times perfectly sure of itself and not dependent on the organ for pitch, speed or dynamics. The foundation thus offered by the organ must be diatonic and not chromatic, otherwise it will give the wrong harmonic flavor and detract from the modal intervals which are inherent in the tonality of Gregorian chant.

5) LATIN PRONUNCIATION

Being the handmaid of the Liturgy, the chant ought never to obscure but to bring out the sense of the words. There must be good diction. This requires attention to correct pronunciation, accentuation and phrasing of the Latin words in the text. The Latin language of the liturgy uses the five fundamental vowel sounds in their original purity.

There is no mixture or fusion of vowel sounds as in the English language.

- Pronounce : A as in father, not as in add.
- E as in mellow, not as in obey.
- I as in radio, not as in miss.
- O as in for, not as in note.
- U as in boot, not as in but.
- AE and OE as simple E above.

Otherwise two consecutive vowels are pronounced separately, e. g. EI, OU, AI, EO, II.

Latin consonants which call for special attention are :

- C before e, ae, oe, i is pronounced like ch in church.
- C before a, o, u is pronounced like c in cat.
- G before a, o, u is pronounced like g in get.
- G before e, i is pronounced like g in gentle.

H is silent as in Thomas, except in mīhi and nīhil where it has the sound of a somewhat softened K.

J (sometimes written as I) gets the sound of the English Y but forms only one sound with the following vowel.

Y in Latin gets the sound of I.

CH is always pronounced K (even before e and i).

GN gets the sound of ny as in the English canyon

PH is always pronounced F.

TH is always pronounced T.

SC before e and i gets the sound of SH.

CC before e and i gets the sound of T plus CH.
(e. g. ecce).

TI before any vowel is TSI.

XC before e and i is pronounced like K plus SH
(e. g. excelsis).

Z is pronounced with the DZ sound in the English word stands.

Regarding the Latin accent, it should be noted that it is not to be treated with the stress or emphasis given to the accent of a word in English or German. On the contrary, the Latin accent is an uplifting impulse. Nor is the syllable with the accent to be prolonged beyond the length of any other syllable. Every syllable must be distinctly pronounced, evenly and smoothly, with none of the tendency for elision peculiar to English pronunciation. No Latin word has the accent on the last syllable nor further back than the third last syllable. In other words, there are only spondees and dactyls in the Latin language.

A musical score for a single voice. The vocal line begins with a capital letter 'B' on the first staff. The lyrics are 'Enedi-cá-mus Dó-mino.' The word 'Let-us-bless' is aligned under the first two notes of the melody, and 'the-Lord.' is aligned under the last two notes. The music consists of six staves of vertical stems with small horizontal dashes indicating pitch and rhythm. The first staff starts with a large 'B' and a sharp sign. The second staff begins with a note followed by a short vertical line. The third staff begins with a note followed by a short vertical line. The fourth staff begins with a note followed by a short vertical line. The fifth staff begins with a note followed by a short vertical line. The sixth staff begins with a note followed by a short vertical line.

V Eni, Cre- á-tor Spí-ri-tus, Méntes tu-órum ví-si-
Come Creator Spirit (The) hearts of-Thy (faithful) visit-ta : Imple su-pérna grá-ti- a Quae tu cre- ásti pécto-ra.

Thou, Fill (with) heavenly grace, What Thou didst-create, our-hearts.

2. Qui díceris Paráclitus,
Thou art-called Paraclete,
Al-tís-si-mi dónum Déi,
Of-the-Most-High gift divine,
Fons vivus, ignis, cáritas,
Fountain of-life, fire, charity,
Et spiritális unctione.
And spiritual anointing.

3. Tu septifórmis múnere,
Thou sevenfold in-gifts,
Dígitus pa-tér-nae déxterae,
Finger of-the-Father's right-hand,
Tu rite promíssum Pátris,
Thou duly promised by-the-Father,
Sermóne dítans gáttura.
With-speech enriching (our) lips.

4. Accénde lúmen sénsibus,
Kindle light in-our-senses,
Infúnde amórem cór-di-bus,
Infuse love in-our-hearts,
Infirma nóstri córporis
The-weakness of-our bodies
Vir-tú-te firmans pépeti.
With-power confirming perpetually.

5. Hóstem repéllas lóngius,

(The) enemy repel a-far,

Pacémque dónes prótinus :

And-peace give-us at-once :

Du-ctó-re sic te praévio,

(Thou our) leader, thus, Thou before (us)

Vi-té-mus ómne nójum.

We-shall-avoid everything harmful.

6. Per te sci-á-mus da Pátre,

Through Thee may-we-know, O-grant-it, (the) Father,

Noscámus atque Fí-li-um,

May-we-know likewise (the) Son,

Téque utriúisque Spíritum

And Thee-of-both (the) Spirit

Credámus ómni témpore.

May-we-believe at-all times.

7. Dé-o Pátri sit glória,

To-God (the) Father be glory,

Et Fílio, qui a mórtuis

And to-the-Son who from (the) dead

Surréxit, ac Pa-rá-clí-to,

Has-risen and to-the-Paraclete

In saeculórum saécula. Amen.

For ever (and) ever. Amen.

V. Re-plé-ti sunt ó-mnes Spí-ri-tu Sán-cto, al-le-lú-ia.

Filled were (they) all (with the) Spirit Holy, alleluia.

R. Et coe-pé-runt ló-qui, al-le-lú-ia.

And they-began to-speak, alleluia.
